REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The claims are deemed allowable because the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest a piston type compressor having a cylindrical rotary valve, and wherein a peripheral portion of the opening of each introducing passage has a first advancing area, wherein, when the high pressure opening starts to be connected with the opening of the introducing passage, the high pressure opening overlaps the first advancing area, and wherein the first advancing area has a first inclined portion that is inclined relative to an axial direction and a circumferential direction of the rotary valve, and wherein a peripheral portion of an high pressure opening has a second advancing area, wherein, when the high pressure opening starts being connected with the opening of one of the introducing passages, the second advancing area overlaps the opening of the introducing passage, and wherein the second advancing area has a second inclined portion, and wherein, when the high pressure opening starts being connected with the opening of one of the introducing passages, the second inclined portion extends along the first inclined portion.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
